

FIBA Champions League - Men

As the ULEB created its own European club competition in summer 2000 they simply used the name EuroLeague as FIBA had forgotten to trademark the name. FIBA Europe had to find a new name for its own top tier level competition creating the SuproLeague. This SuproLeague was folded after one season due to the agreement between FIBA Europe and ULEB harmonizing the several club competitions in the seasons 2001/02 and 2005/06 - 2015/16.

As a result of these negotiations in 2002/03 FIBA Europe started the FIBA Europe Champions Cup as a third-tier level club competition (ranking behind EuroLeague and EuroCup both ruled by ULEB). In the seasons 2003/04 and 2004/05 the competition runs under the name FIBA Europe League, followed by the FIBA EuroCup in 2005/06 - 2007/08. For the longest period the competition was called FIBA EuroChallenge (2008/09 - 2014/15).

The agreement between FIBA Europe and ULEB ended after 2015/16 season. FIBA Europe tried to get back the leading position in European club basketball creating the Champions League. But ULEB still runs its own competitions with the best European basketball clubs. So, the Champions League is the third tier competition further on.

Format: 2000/01 regular season in a group stage, Best of Three last 16 round and quarter final, knock-out Final Four
