

Athletics - Progression of Indoor world records (defunct)

Since January 01, 1987, the World Athletics (former IAAF) officially ratifies indoor world records. The running disciplines must be run on tracks that are no longer than 200 m / 220 y. The limits in each discipline were the world best performance on December 31, 1986. The best result of 1987 better than the world best performance was accepted as first world record. If this failed, the world best performance was increased to the first world record.

World Athletics introduced the new term 'short track' to replace the current term 'indoor' to describe events and performances that are set on a 200m track, traditionally staged indoors. The World Athletics Council is supporting the concept of 'short track' competition to allow more flexibility in the setting of 200m tracks, which may, in the future, be constructed outdoors or in temporary city locations, rather than in a traditional indoor arena. Performances set on outdoor or temporary 200m tracks could therefore be recognized as official results for the purpose of records and rankings. These new rules came into effect on November 01, 2023.
